2.	A certain standard has to be attained in the Russian language before a pupil qualifies for a higher class. In spite of this ruling certain tacit concessions have to be made when taking into account the acute shortage of Russian teachers which prevails in the Russian Zone; some schools receive only two hours of Russian instruction per week whereas the school syllabus requires six hours per week.

- 6. The main subjects of the curriculum were:
 - a. German History
 - b. The Doctrines of Marx and Engels
 - c. The Communist Manifesto
 - d. Political Philosophy
 - e. The Story of the Russian Revolution
- A college for the training of history teachers and a political school for teachers (no details known) are situated in the Gewerkschaftshaus, Krammerstrasse, Leipzig.

Political Affiliation of Teachers

- 8. All Neulehrer are expected to join a political party six months after their engagement, not necessarily the SED. The majority of teachers are, however, Party members.
- 9. The only remaining Altlehrer in school is the headmaster, who 50X1-HUM was a Communist prior to 1933.

Bonuses for Political Activity

10. Teachers who are particularly active political propagandists receive special inducements in the form of extra allocations of food and consumer goods.

the maps used during geography lessons in the schools of the Soviet Zone are physical maps only, with no delimitation of boundaries or indentification of countries. Any teacher using a map showing national frontiers is liable to instant dismissal.
